

Enter the password screen

When creating a new database from an existing template, the default username is: admin and the password is blank

In case the message "Need to rebuild data on the server" appears, please rebuild the data before logging in from the File - Manage Connectios - Rebuild database menu

In case the password is forgotten, please ask the system administrator to create a new password, note: The password is encrypted and cannot be known, and the system administrator can only create a new password.
